ST. GEORGES CHURCH

Re-opened Sunday With Special Services and an Address

TEN MEMORIAL WINDOWS

St. Georges Presbyterian Church, at St. Georges, was formerly re-opened Sunday with pleasing exercises in which numerous clergymen and several prominent laymen participated. The church was erected in 1698 and is in excellent condition at this date. It has been further enhanced by the installation of ten handsome memorial windows, which make the quaint old edifice more attractive than ever.

The Rev. J. R. Milligan is pastor of the church, and the re-opening services began at 10.30 o'clock in the morning, in charge of the Rev. R. A. Davidson, D. D., who was pastor of St. Georges Church from 1893 to 1900. He preached the re-opening sermon. The congregation filled the church. Among the ministers who assisted in this and other services were the Rev. W. H. Logan, the Rev. T. Chalmers Potter, D. D., the Rev. R. L. Hallett, the Rev. B. Frank Davis and the Rev. G. A. Foote.

At 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon a historical service was held, which also was largely attended, many Wilmingtonians being in the congregation. A feature of this service was an admirable address by Anthony Higgins, of Wilmington. His address was historical in nature, but the facts were portrayed in such a manner as to make them most interesting. This was followed by the speeches in presenting the ten memorial windows. The window dedicated to the memory of the Rev. Dr. Howe, the first pastor of the church, was presented on behalf of the donors by Anthony Higgins, who was heard to excellent advantage. The window in honor of Dr. McWhorter, late of St. Georges, was presented by Frank McWhorter, and William T. Tilden, of Philadelphia made the presentation of the window in memory of Dr. Tatum of St. Georges. The Hon. John C. Higgins, counsel to Dundee, presented the window in memory of Anthony M. Higgins, the father of John C. Higgins and Anthony Higgins. Pastor Milligan made the presentation of the window in memory of the Rev. Dr. Beale, a former pastor, and the Rev. W. H. Logan presented the window in memory of Philip Reybold. The window in memory of John Curtis Clark was presented by Theodore F. Clark and the window in memory of Daniel B. Stewart was presented by the Rev. Dr. R. A. Davidson. A window installed in the vestibule by the Christian Endeavor Society was presented by Mr. Gray, and a window given by the W. C. T. U. was presented by Mrs. J. R. Milligan. The presentation speeches were exceedingly interesting.

The windows in memory of Dr. Howe, Dr. Tatum, Dr. McWhorter and Anthony M. Higgins are along the west side of the church and to the right in entering, and the remaining windows, excepting those given by the Christian Endeavor Society and the W. C. T. U. are on the east side. The Christian Endeavor and W. C. T. U. windows are in the vestibule.

Pastor Milligan made the prayer dedicating the memorial windows.

In the evening the sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. Henry Rumer, who was pastor from 1877 to 1885.

The church choir, augmented, furnished excellent music at all the services. Those who assisted the choir included Miss Julia Newton, Mrs. Charles Jefferson, and the Revs. G. A. Foote, R. L. Hallett and B. Frank Davis. The quartette included Mrs. J. R. Milligan, Miss Sara E. Milligan, Clarence E. Poole, J. W. Gibson with Mrs. T. Bayard Heisel as organist. The ushers during the day were Clayton M. Riley, Stewart Clark, Leslie Ford, Charles G. Cann, W. D. Clark and Francis B. Stuckert.

NEW YORK FASHIONS

New Three-Quarter Coats; Military Capes; The New Paquin Skirt; Fall and Winter Millinery

To be in style this season, one must wear a three-quarter length garment, whether it is a loose coat, strapped at the back, a double or triple military cape, or one exceedingly full, gathered to a yoke, with little capes (which survive all caprices of fashion) also. The paletot shape has very large, loose sleeves, and often very handsome appliques in black or the fashionable "burnt-orange," around the shoulders and neck. Black velvet coats are also of this shape, and are both plain or very ornate. If one desires to be conspicious, the wish is easily gratified, as the excess of color this season in out-door wraps, and costumes as well, is almost unprecedented. The close-fitting, twenty-six inch length jacket is by no means laid aside, the most fashionable being of fur-plush, a remarkable imitation of broadtail, beaver or chinchilla.

The Tight Waist

is not as yet warmly welcomed, and a very moderate blouse still exists. The folds in many full, round waists are kept close to the figure by means of high silk girdles, thus giving to some extent the effect of a tight-waist. Surplice necks are very graceful, and a small revere is sometimes added, with simulated buttonholes of braid, finished by a button.

The Question of Skirts

is all-important, and certainly there is contrast, as chiffon broadcloth, chiffon velvet, or soft satin costumes are made with very full skirts, not unfrequently quite plain, or with two tucks, or fully trimmed. The new Paquin skirt which of course excites much comment, is cut in four gores of the same size, the centre laid on a straight line of the cloth, which makes the edges a little on the bias. The lower edge of the skirt is finished by a wide hem, and as it is very full, a Lily Hair Cloth Flounce on the drop skirt is indispensable in order to prevent the folds from falling around the feet of the wearer.

This stylish street suit, supplied by The Modes Fashion and Pattern Co. of this city, is of marine blue zibeline, finished with small gun metal buttons. The jacket is closely fitted narrow back and side back gores, the seams extending to shoulders, and producing a long-waisted effect that is very becoming. The skirt is shaped with nine gores which are fitted smoothly around the waist and hips without darts.

Fall And Winter Millinery

is of the most pronounced character, and the high crowned or Directoire hat has potent rivals in the long-haired beaver, and the poke hat as well. The fluffy beaver is both plain or in shaded color tones, and delightful contrasts or harmonies are the usual result. Plumes are the preferred garniture or mammoth flowers and leaves, one, or more together, or as a circlet. Colored leaves may be combined with roses or dahlias, or compose an entire hat—a small size of course. Peaches and grapes add their charm, placed in clusters on black tulle, or pendant from beneath a brim.

Poke Hats

intended for street or carriage wear are quite large, either of velvet or beaver, with many ostrich tips at the front, and handsome face trimming, shirred silk in three tints being especially attractive. For evening, they are smaller and of light-hued velvet or white, smooth finished beaver, elaborately trimmed with shaded ribbon, flowers and chiffon. The independent crown flourishes—coming also of chenille in the Tam O'Shanter shape, of fur, or of velvet folds finished by a buckle, and where a silk crown is used, the height may be increased by an accordion-plaited silk ruffle placed around the top of the crown.

THE CHILD IN THE MIDST

MARGARET E. SANGSTER

When the Lord of the great and the little,
The potter whose hand shapes our clay,
Sets a child in the midst of the market
Where the world-peoples chaffer all day,
Sets a child with its innocent questions,
Its flower-face dimpled and fine,
In the very heart's core of the clamor,
A thought of the Maker Divine—
And men, in their lust for dominion,
Their madness for silver and gold,
Crush the beauty and charm from that spirit,
Make the flower-face withered and old,
Bind the hands and the feet with a tether
That childhood can never untie,
Deem not that Jehovah unheeding
Looks down from the heights of the sky
He sees, though we think Him unseeing,
He knows when the factory wheels
Grind down to the life-blood of children;
When the poor little bond-servant kneels
In the pangs of its frightful abasement—
Though all men are deaf to its prayer,
There is coming a dark day of judgement
And the Lord of the child will be there
The child in the midst, as we've marred it
Bent-shouldered, dull-eyed, and a slave
That cringes at word and at fetter,
That cries for the rest of the grave;
With our free flag unfolding above it,
So free, from the pine to the palm!
And our scared pallid children beneath it!
There's a jar in the lilt of our psalm.
From the mine where the midnight engulfs it,
From the mill where the clogged air is thick
With the dust of the weaving that chokes it;
From the home, where it's fevered and sick
With man's toil, when God meant it for gladness,
The child in the midst, in our clay
God-moulded, greed-marred, calls to heaven
For the vengeance we're daring, this day.

WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 10th, 1904.

YESTERDAY thousands of people assembled inside and outside of St. John's Episcopal church, in this city, to attend the funeral of Postmaster General Payne. The streets were blocked for a long distance around Lafayette Square and the Arlington hotel. The services began at 11 o'clock, and continued for one half hour. Among those in the audience were the President, and Mrs. Roosevelt, dressed in black; Admiral Dewey; the Chinese and Japanese ministers; the General of the Army; Gen. Black and wife; Mr. Justice Harlan and Mr. Justice Brown of the Supreme Court, with his bride; and many other officials together with such of the Cabinet officers as are in the town. The display of flowers was very elaborate. When the casket was taken to the depot the hearse was proceeded by 200 letter carriers who marched four file front. A few carriages followed filled with members of the family and the pallbearers. The President looked in the best of health and spirits. Those nearest to him say he is very optimistic regarding the political situation. Mr. Cortelyou came on from New York to attend the funeral. Afterwards he went to the White House. As he was about to leave he said: "Mr. President I believe you will win, and you will win without a promise, express or implied, having been given a corporation, interest or individual in exchange for support." This is taken to be an answer to a lenghty attack recently made upon the President by a New York daily paper. A few days ago a delegation of Philadelphia citizens, headed by Senator Penrose, called upon the President to ask him to revoke a recent order from the War Department, which would take work away from some 3,000 widows and wives of old soldiers and give it to contractors. It seems the War office wants 55,000 pairs of dress trousers and sought the cheapest contractor, regardless of the fact that heretofore these women have done the work. The President immediately canceled the order and dictated a letter of inquiry to the Secretary of War, asking why it was issued. He promised that an investigation shall be made. The seamstresses were delighted with their reception, and will hold a thank-offering meeting in Philadelphia. Senator Foraker has been in town, and assures the President that in his opinion Indiana, Wisconsin, and Nebraska will give Republican pluralities.

Comptroller Ridgeley of the Treasury Department would like to devise a scheme of bank examination which would be absolutely rascal tight. He says this in face of the fact that recently at Grinnell, Iowa, an institution was wrecked by the successful substitution of forged paper right in the face of an examination by bank examiner Shaw. The bank showed no trace of mismanagement, and as Mr. Shaw has some two hundred or more bands to examine, he cannot stop to verify all the paper which passes through his hands. Mr. Ridgely is decidedly of opinion that the directorate of each individual bank should exercise such scrutiny, over its internal affairs as to make forged paper impossible. Fifty years ago banks suffered robbery in numerous instances from expert cracksmen. Owing to modern safeguards their occupation is now lost. The problem now is how to protect a bank's funds from those inside the bank.

The old naval observatory, which stands upon a beautiful elevation in the south western part of this city, has for the past ten years been used for the Hygienic Museum. There is now being held within its ample walls a free school for Naval Surgeons. There are some 25 pupils in attendance from different states, all of whom have received the degree of M. D. from a medical college, but who will remain here for six months of hard study to fit themselves for duty on board war ships. Lectures are given each day from 9 o'clock until 4.30 P. M. with half an hour for luncheon. Your correspondent had a pleasant interview with Medical Director Marmion a day or two ago, and learned that there are more vacancies in the Navy for surgeons than there are applicants. At this school the men are taught the use of the compass; the barometer; signalling; fencing; the broad sword;—and as soon as a tank is provided swimming will be added to the list of accomplishments. The object of the school is to make the men familiar with conditions on ship board, besides supplementing their medical education where there is need of it. By the first of next January there will be some forty vacancies in the Navy to be filled by medical men so there is room for fifteen more young men.

MIDDLETOWN, DEL., OCT. 15, 1904.

THE LEVY COURT

The most important matter to be decided by the voters of New Castle County at the election on November 8th, is the selection of proper Levy Court Commissioners. The Democrats have proven conclusively by their past record that they cannot or will not manage the county's affairs economically. In 1891, when the Republicans succeeded to control after 10 years of Democratic rule, they found the treasury empty and $100,000 of debts. In two years the Republicans paid off the debts and left the credit of the county first class. The gerrymander under the Five Commissioner act returned the Democrats to power and resulted in the same old story of extravagance and waste. The conditions in 1901 are too well known for comment.

A large share of the credit for the present low tax rate and economical system of management of county affairs is due to Merritt N. Willits, who has been accorded by the Republicans of the Sixth District, a re-nomination that was almost unanimous, and the party is willing to rest its claims to success upon his record as an official and as a citizen. Certain charges are being made by Democrats in the Eastern section of St. Georges Hundred that the poor condition of some of the county bridges and causeways is due to the small appropriation for this district for repairs, etc. The falsity of these charges can be best refuted by reference to the report of the auditors, which show that in no year has Commissioner Armstrong expended one-half the sum allotted to this district. Within certain limits a Levy Court Commissioner is allowed a free hand. As THE TRANSCRIPT pointed out more than a year ago, the matter of repairs has been almost criminally neglected, and we said then and we say now it was done for the express purpose of furnishing this campaign stery. There is more than one causeway that by the expenditure of $500 a year or eighteen months ago would have saved $5,000 that must now be spent by the next Commissioner. But the interests of the County has been made subsidiary to the possible election of enough Democratic Levy Court Commissioners to control the appointment of tax collectors and constables, and the graft of furnishing lumber and other supplies.

We hardly think it necessary to comment on the situation in the Seventh District, Appoquinimink and Blackbird Hundreds. Abram Staats, the Republican nominee for Levy Court Commissioner is able and honest and will make as efficient and successful public official as he has made ...j. Chandler, the nominee for ...e nominee ...fice, was Presi... Levy Court during ...t years from 1893 to 1901. ...e voters of the District have the choice. If they choose wisely it is well; if unwisely, the county at large will have to suffer with them.

ONE STATE TICKET

After two days of earnest endeavor to get together the Regular and Union Republican State Committees finally agreed on Wednesday on a State ticket headed by Preston Lea as a candidate for Governor. This assures the electoral vote of Delaware to Roosevelt and the continuance for four years of Republican rule in the state. There is some dissatisfaction with this result. No other would have pleased everyone. The Democrats are especially sore over the compromise. We do not blame them. Dr. Joseph H. Chandler is kicking. We feel sorry for him, think that his talks and threatened action of running as an independent candidate go far towards proving the wisdom of the Republican committee in consenting to drop him. Any man who is unwilling to accept the verdict of the regularly constituted authority of his party and surrender his personal ambition or desire for the good of the whole party is hardly the man to follow as the standard bearer. We would like to suggest to Dr. Chandler that he examine the returns of an election only a few years back, when John P. Donahoe ran as an independent Democratic candidate for Congress. His total vote was 121. By the way, Dr. Chandler keeps re iterating that he was urged to be a candidate for Governor and only consented when told that he would be expected to "stay on the ticket" until the polls closed on November 8th. We would like to have the name of the "urger." Will the Doctor dare give the names?

ONE REPUBLICAN TICKET

Republican differences were harmonized Wednesday evening, when the Republican and the Union Republican State Committees finished their deliberations. From top to bottom the two organizations are now in thorough accord as to candidates on the state and Congressional ticket. With election day less than a month distant, the Republican joint campaign committee, of which T. Coleman duPont is chairman, proposes to make an aggressive campaign to assure more than ever the triumph of the Republican ticket.

Preston Lea became the candidate for Governor on the single Republican ticket. He needs no introduction to the Republicans of New Castle County, as he is very well known. Mr. Lea is not trammeled by any condition and he becomes the candidate without any pledges to be kept or any promises to be fulfilled in event of his election.

He declined to stand as the candidate if conditions were to be imposed as to his appointment of a Secretary of State, but the Union Republican State Committee removed this obstacle and graciously accepted Mr. Lea for Governor, without any restriction whatsoever.

This removes the only campaign howl that the Democratic opposition could voice against Mr. Lea or against the method of adjusting the Republican ticket in accordance with a resolution adopted in the Republican state convention at Dover.

For Congress, Dr. Hiram R. Burton of Lewes, who was the Union Republican nominee, is placed on the compromise ticket according to the allotment of the office to the Unionists. Because of this allotment, Horace G. Knowles, who was the Republican nominee for Congress, Wednesday afternoon addressed the Republican State Committee, and then voluntarily tendered his resignation. His action won for him the plaudits of the committeemen.

For Attorney-General, Robert H. Richards, of Wilmington, becomes the candidate. Mr. Richards was nominated in the Republican convention. His record during the past four years as deputy attorney-general made him the logical candidate of the party to succeed Attorney-General Ward, who declined a renomination.

Dr. George W. Marshall of Milford, the Union nominee, becomes the candidate for insurance commissioner. He has filled that office the past four years and has been a most faithful and efficient official as his record shows.

Of the remainder of the ticket, General I. Thomas Parker, the candidate for lieutenant-governor, was the Union nominee, while George H. Dick, the candidate for state auditor, and Thomas N. Rawlins, the candidate for state treasurer, were the Republican nominees.

Harmony was brought about after a most harmonious session. All the Republican nominees, excepting Dr. Joseph H. Chandler, resigned from the ticket during Wednesday in the interests of harmony. Dr. Chandler was asked to retire but would not do so.

Management of the Republican campaign is to be conducted by a joint committee comprising T. Coleman duPont, Regular Republican, chairman; Senator L. Heisler Ball and Martin B. Burris, Regulars, and Senator J. Frank Allee and Dr. Caleb R. Layton, Union Republicans. While the Regular and Union state committees gathered at their respective state headquarters at 11 o'clock in the morning, nothing definite was accomplished until dusk.

The great obstacle to a speedy settlement of the differences was the attitude of Mr. Lea, who objected to taking the compromise place if he would be hedged in by conditions as to his appointment of a secretary of state.

For more than two hours during the afternoon the joint campaign committee was closeted with Mr. Lea at the Union Bank, and when they parted about 5 o'clock, the committee had the following written expression from Mr. Lea:

"I beg to advise you that I regret exceedingly that I cannot accept the nomination for Governor under the conditions imposed, as to the appointment of the Secretary of State." This was signed by Mr. Lea.

This action was communicated by Senator Allee and Dr. Layton to the Union Republican committee, and about 6 o'clock Dr. Layton delivered to the Republican state committee a communication, as follows:

"I have the honor to inform you that the Union Republican State Central Committee, by formal vote, accept the nomination of Preston Lea for Governor upon the condition of the removal of the restriction imposed by previous reciprocal agreements between the two Republican State Committee relative to the appointment of Secretary of State." This was signed by J. Frank Allee, chairman.

Dr. Layton also delivered the nominations made by the Union Republicans for the offices of Congressman, Lieutenant-Governor and Insurance Commissioner, and a few moments later the compromise ticket was completed by the Republican state committee.

All the nominees on the Republican ticket resigned, with the exception of Dr. ...t came to filling the nomination for state treasurer, accredited to the Republicans, some of the committeemen desired to substitute the name of Charles H. Maull of Lewes for that of Thomas N. Rawlins, the convention nominee. By a vote of nine to three Mr. Rawlins' name was retained on the ticket, after Committeeman Swain had protested against Mr. Rawlins being taken down.

During the afternoon Dr. Chandler, nominee for Governor, was informed that the other nominees had consented to resign and he was asked if he would do so. According to a member of the committee Dr. Chandler declined to resign from the ticket.

Money is the Root of all Evil

Yet we all have quite a desire to procure some of that same root. Those that have plenty of it, are still reaching out after more and trying to keep as much as possible of that which they already have. This desire sums to be a part of human nature. Well in a way it is natural, because it really is related to the law of self preservation.

Do you know that we can assist you in your efforts to lay by that "rainy day" sum? We can save you dollars and cents if you deal with us. Try and see.

Men's and Young Men's Suits

The enthusiastic way men are buying our new fall suits speaks volumes for the work of our cutters and tailors. We proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that good, up-to-date clothing doesn't necessarily mean high prices.

We're selling plenty of single-breasted sack suits in black and fancy cheviots—$8.50 to $25.

The younger men are buying the new three-button, double-breasted sack suit, in brown mixtures and brown overplaids—they're the brightest suits in town. "Give me the centre seam and vent," says the young man, and he's right. $15 buys big value.

The 36th annual convention of the Grand Lodge, Knights of Phythias of Delaware, will be held in Knights of Phythias Hall, this town, October 20th, 10 A. M. The local lodge is making all necessary arrangements to entertain the visitors.

During the year from September 30th, 1903, to October 1st, 1904, the grange made a large growth in the United States. There were 281 new granges organized. In Delaware the membership increased from 826 to 909, and the order is in a flourishing condition.

Those of our people who delight in the culture of flowers are now engaged in repotting plants and taking them inside for the winter. Nothing adds more to the beauty of a home than the winter growing pot plants and there should be more of them in every well regulated home.

Mr. Ernest Solway, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Solway of this town, was married to Miss Helen Clay of Elkton, Md., on Monday. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Solway passed through Middletown Monday evening en route for Dover, where they will reside.

Married—Walter L. Gonce and Mildred Howell were quietly married at Bethesda parsonage Monday evening by Rev. C. T. Wyatt.

While at work in the J. C. Parker harness factory on Tuesday morning, Mr. James Downey met with a most painful accident. The unfortunate man had the fingers of his left hand caught in a steam stamping machine and before he could release it three fingers were crushed to a jelly. The accident was a painful one, it being necessary to shut off steam and stop all the machinery before his hand could be released. The wounded man was immediately removed to his home where Drs. Lewis and Pearson found it necessary to amputate three fingers at the second joint, leaving only the little finger and thumb intact. The pain was intense, but we learn the patient is doing nicely, but is still confined to his bed.

The other day the writer of this article was standing at one of the street corners near the Public School. On the opposite side of the street was a gooup of children wending their way to school. A moment or two later one of the teachers of the said school came into view. Instantly the whole group of children made a break. Everyone dashed forward to the teacher. It became a regular footrace as to which should reach the teacher first. Then there was a scramble to get as close to her as possible. The little scene in the street was delightfully refreshing. It spoke volumes. When a teacher wins the love of her pupils in any such way as that, it can be marked down as a certainty that she is a perfect disciplinarian without using the rod.

WITH THE SHOOTERS

The Delaware Trap Shooting League was organized on October 4th, consisting of most of the gun clubs of the State, and it was decided to hold the first State shoot on the grounds of the Middletown Shooting Association, on Thursday, Oct. 27th.

Assurances have been received from all quarters that really all the good shots of the State will be present. The two important events on the program will be a team shoot between teams of 5 men from each club, 50 targets to a man, for which a trophy will be presented the winning team by the League, and a 100 target race for the individual championship for which a trophy will also be given. This shoot will be the largest ever held in the State, fully 50 shooters are expected, among them such noted professional shoots as J. A. R. Elliott, Hawkins, Squier, Skelly, Butler, Keller and the duPonts. Richardson, of Dover, and Foord, of Wilmington, will be among the crack amateurs present.

The grounds and traps are being put in order and high scores are bound to be made, weather permitting.

A few members of the Middletown Shooting Association went out for practice on Thursday afternoon, their scores following. Duryea surrendered the gold medal to our heavy-weight, F. Pool by 1 target, score 18 to 17.

Pool returned the compliment by relinquishing the Silver medal to Duryea This contest was very close between all 5 members contesting. Pool and Duryea tied at 22, Duryea beating him out on the shoot-off at 10 targets, 9 to 8.

Friday's Morning News say: "Some famous trap shooters are to participate in the opening shoot of the Delaware Trap Shooters League which will be held at Middletown on October 27. J. A. R. Elliott and J. Mowell Hawkins, both of whom are well known in this section, have announced that they will participate. They are representatives of the Winchester Company. Frank Butler, the husband of Annie Oakley the famous female shot, will be present and will look after the interests of the U. M. C. Company. The list of entries promises to be large."

JOHN W. REYNOLDS, JR.

John W. Reynolds one of the best known farmers in this county, died at his home near Summit Bridge on Wednesday morning, aged 44 years. Mr. Reynolds' death is a very sad one. On Tuesday afternoon while he was engaged in picking apples in his orchard, the ladder which he was using suddenly fell striking him on the head. His family did not consider him seriously injured, and were greatly alarmed when he was taken suddenly ill in the evening. A physican was hastily summoned, but the injured man never rallied, and died at four o'clock Wednesday morning. He leaves a devoted wife, six children to mourn his sad death. The funeral will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock, services being held in Summit M. E. Church, interment being in Bethel Cemetesy.

MRS. AMANDA L. BROCKSON

Mrs. Amanda Lattomus Brockson, wife of Mr. Samuel J. Brockson, of near Blackbird, died suddenly on Monday morning at her home. Her death was a great shock to the entire community. Mrs. Brockson was a teacher in Blackbird Sunday School, and was the president of the Mission Help Department of the League. From girlhood she has been associated with the church and was always ready to do her part. She is survived by a husband and one son, Irving, aged 12 years, besides a circle of sorrowful friends. The deceased is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Lattomus of Clayton, and was only thirty-four years of age. This fact makes her death seem more sad. Her funeral took place Wednesday morning at 10.30 o'clock from the residence of her husband Samuel J. Brockson. Interment at Odd Fellow's Cemetery, Smyrna.

WILLIAM A. COCHRAN, Sr.

In the death of William A. Cochran, Sr., which occurred on Saturday afternoon last, this community looses one of its oldest and widely known citizen, and it is indeed hard to realize that his familiar face will be seen on our streets no more. Mr. Cochran had been in poor health for a number of years, but his cheerful disposition often concealed this fact from his most intimate friends. He was born at the old homestead on the road leading to Odessa in 1819, and had spent his entire life in this community. He married Sarah O. Shallcoss, a daughter of Jacob Shallcross, of Frankford, Pa., and was the father of ten children, nine of whom are living. The surviving children are Henry S. Cochran, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Richard R. Cochran, of Middletown; Mrs. S. M. Paxson, of Middletown; Mrs. John W. McCoy, of Odessa; Miss Laura Cochran, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Robert Morgan, of Fairlee, Md.; William A., of Middletown; Robert R., of Colorado Springs, Col., and Mrs. William S. Connellee, of Middletown. One child, Maggie S., has been dead for several years. He also leaves 34 grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren. He was one of four brothers, all of whom lived more than four score years—Ex-Governor John P. Cochran, R. Thomas, and Richard, the last of whom, Richard W., died in July of this year. Mr. Cochran was a member of St. Anne's Episcopal Church, of this town.

The funeral services were held on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of Richard R. Cochran, near town; interment being made in Forest Cemetery. Owing to the absence of the Rev. W. J. Wilkie, rector of St. Anne's Church, the Rev, Francis H. Moore, of the Forest Presbyterian Church, conducted the services.

Six nephews, Frank and John P. Cochran, of Galena, Md.; Thomas, Dan M., Jullan and Jacob S. Cochran of this town acted as pall bearers.

DEFECTIVE HEATING APPARATUS

Defective heating apparatus is the cause of many fires, and as the cold weather approaches, it would be well for all to consider the importance of the following recommendations, before putting heating apparatus into regular service :—

1st.—Furnish metal mats for stoves.

2nd.—Where stoves are located near woodwork, protect woodwork by metal.

3rd.—See that metal collars, affording suitable air-spaces, are provided where stove-pipes pass through woodwork.

4th.—Provide metal receptacles for ashes.

5th.—Do not dump ashes in any place where there would be danger of a hot coal coming into contact with combustible material.

6th.—Where terra-cotta flues are in use, discard same, using brick instead.

7th.—Remember that defective flues are frequent causes of fires.

8th.—See that steam pipes do not come into contact with the woodwork, and that all rubbish is kept free from same.

FIRST WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

"Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Ferguson of near Blackbird afforded their friends a delightful evening on Thursday last the occasion being their first wedding anniversary. A year ago Mr. Ferguson son of Mr. Colen Ferguson took for his bride Miss Florence Taylor of Smyrna daughter of Mrs. Samuel Taylor and the first year of their married life has been a very happy one. They are now residing in their beautiful new home just opposite the Ferguson home stead and the reception Thursday evening gave her friend an opportunity to admire its bright and cozy effects and its modern conveniences. Various games and other pastimes were indulged in and a sumptuous spread was served. Those present were Miss Anna Beckett, Smyrna; Miss Lillie Lower, Brenford; Miss Ferguson, Blackbird; Messrs. Charles J. Sudler, Vernon Phillips and Gilbert S. Faires, Smyrna." —Smyrna Times.

OCTOBER'S PARTY

October gave a party;
The leaves by hundreds came—
The Ashes, Oakes and Maples,
And those of every name;
The sunshine spread a carpet,
And everything was grand,
Miss Weather led the dancing,
Professor Wind the band

The Chestnuts came in yellow,
The Oaks in crimson dressed;
The lovely Misses Maple
In scarlet looked their best,
And balanced all their partners
And gaily fluttered by:
The sight was like a rainbow
New-fallen from the sky

Then in the rustic hollows
At "hide and seek" they played;
The party closed at sundown.
And everybody stayed;
Professor Wind played louder,
They flew along the ground,
And then the party ended
In jolly "hands around."

Nothing Done in Grave Opening

No action has been taken by the state authorities on the opening of the grave of Mrs. Anne Owens, near Bridgeville, and the mutilation of her body. No complaint of the case has been made to Attorney-General Ward. It is likely that Detective Ratledege or Francis will go to Bridgeville to look into the case. They have been busy in Sussex county court all week.

Glasgow Methodists to Celebrate

The twentieth anniversary of Glasgow Methodist Episcopal Church will be celebrated on Sunday. The pastor, Rev. Fred E. McKinsey, has arranged all day service in honor of the anniversary. He will be assisted in the services by the Rev. Howard Davis of Powellville, Md., and the Rev. E. C. Atkins of Newark.

To Adjust County Ticket

It is expected that negotiations will be opened to-day for an adjustment of the Republican county ticket. Each organization now has a complete county and legislative ticket in the field, and it is desired to harmonize it into a single ticket.

On Wednesday afternoon about four o'clock fire was discovered in the store of S. P. Hoover & Son. It was caused by an oil stove exploding in the office, and, but for the prompt appearance of James H. Smith with a chemical fire extinguisher, the building and aojoining houses probably could never have been saved, as a strong North East wind was blowing at the time.

CONTEST DISMISSED

After a meeting of more than four hours the Republican County Committee Thursday afternoon dismissed the contest of Harry A. Brown for the nomination for clerk of the peace, and of Isaac C. Elliott for the nomination for Levy Court from Brandywine and Christiana hundreds. This declares Winfield S. Quigley the nominee for clerk of the peace and William J. Brown the nominee for the Levy Court.

After these results had been determined Harry A. Brown won the plaudits of every committeeman by his manly action. "I did not make this contest of my own accord but my friends insisted on a contest," said Mr. Brown, addressing the committee. "I want to say right here that I am satisfied with the result, and you will find me working hard for the ticket on November 8th." Following this declaration Mr. Brown walked to Mr. Quigley, the successful nominee, who was in another room and grasped him by the hand.

When the ballot-box in Shellpot district was opened, the recount of ballots gave practically, with one or two slight preparations, the same figures as on the official certificate from the district.

Russw... Food ... Chopp...
We don't kn... sell more of the Russwin Food Choppers at this time of the year than any other, but we do.
There is no time during the entire year that a Russwin Chopper in the kitchen is not seasonable.
Takes the place of the old fashion bowl and knife, does better work, without any noise. Made in two sizes, No, 1, $1, No. 2, $1.25
May we have the pleasure of showing you how they work.

REBUILDING GREAT RAILROAD

How a Ruthless Reorganization of the Trackage Proved Worth Its Cost.

As an example of what may be done in rebuilding an American railroad, I have chosen the story of a line with its terminals in three great inland American cities that show every characteristic of the national activity, says Frank H Spearman in the October World's Work.

For many years, the road had enjoyed the reputation of being a first-class line. The railroad world believed in it, and so did the traveling public. But a new president came in, who informed the astonished operating department that they had, in point of fact, no road at all; that their track was an excuse, their motive power a remembrance, their equipment a curiosity, and their reputation a fiction.

The road was one of the first built out of Chicago. It had run the first sleeping car ever offered to the public in the world; it had run the first chair car ever built, and the first dining car. But the tracks, built in an early day, followed closely the configuration of the country: the grades reflected very faithfully the hills and the hollows of the prairie. The bridges and the culverts were chiefly of wood, and such ballast as had been used was the spoil of convenient gravel-banks; a little stone, some slag—all worn in the service. One pet the good road had, a graceful steel bridge of enormous proportions—which had cost half a million dollars—spanning the Missouri river. It was the first steel bridge built in the world. In the rebuilding of the system, even so unique a claim to distinction could not save it. To the horror of the operating department, the five hundred thousand dollar bridge went to the scrap heap. The picturesque features of the pioneer line had had their day.

The first new order to the engineering department on the division where the traffic converges towards Chicago called for grades no greater than three-tenths of one per cent. Seventy pound rails were ordered for branches and passing tracks and, on the main line, eighty-pound rails were called for from end to end of the system. While steam shovels were tearing down the Illinois hills, bridge engineers were ripping out trestles and culverts, and the false work was going in at the Missouri river for the new bridge—a million dollar steel bridge, capable of carrying the huge locomotives and the cars of fifty-five tons capacity that were being built for the new owners. To eliminate curves and reduce grades, the original right of way was in places wholly abandoned.

An American Gentleman.

Carl Schurz in McClure's Magazine.

As portrayed by his own utterances this was George William Curtis as a public character and a public teacher—the ideal party man—for he always strove to the utmost to hold his party true to its highest aims; and the ideal independent, being true to his principles, his convictions of right and the commands of his conscience even against the behests of his party. And as he was the ideal party man and the ideal independent, so he might well have been called the finest type of the American gentleman. . . . When we think of the men whom we would point out as models to our youth at home, or whom we would like to have looked upon as representative American gentlemen by the world abroad, George William Curtis will surely be selected as one of the first.

What his pure, gentle, lovable, and loving nature was to those standing nearest to him, no words can express. If his personal friends speak of him only in the language of eulogy, it is because it will sound like eulogy when they speak of him only the sober truth as they understand and feel it. He was, indeed, one of those rare human beings in whom the eye of criticism detects nothing that friendship would be said that nobody ever came into contact with him without being better and happier for it.

It is a saddening thought that the melody of his eloquent voice will never be heard again, and that his ennobling presence is gone from among us forever. We have to console ourselves with the certainty that much of his work will endure, that the inspiration of his teaching and example will live, and that his memory will be tenderly cherished and remain highly honored as that of a benefactor of mankind and one of the noblest citizens of our republic.

Instructor (at night school)—"What are the chief curses of American civilization?" Shaggy-Haired Pupil—"'Bout the same as the English, only we use 'em more freely in our common talk than they do. You don't expect me to blurt 'em out, do you?"—Chicago Tribune.

HOW TO CATCH SWORDFISH.

Watch for Their Waving Dorsal Fin, Then Spear Them.

This is the swordfish season, says the Hartford Courant. In all that blue and dancing water of the open ocean between Montauk Point, on the east end of Long Island and Block Island, No Man's Land and Martha's Vineyard, the swordfish is at home in the summer months. That is, the grown-up swordfish is; nobody ever saw a really little one there. They show up as visitors to this country when they reach, say seventy-five pounds in weight. It is said that the young are found only in the Mediterranean. How the mature ones learned the attractions of a summer at the New England coast resorts is to be guessed by those who have active imaginations, and how the fish find their way over here year after year is equally puzzling.

They come and feed on the squid, young mackeral and other objects of interest that they encounter. The fattening diet moves them along to a weight of sometimes as much as 500 pounds. With their swords and their amazing powers of locomotion they have no fear of anything, and they lie on the top of the ocean as serene as if there was nothing else in creation. The big black dorsal fin waves gracefully to and fro in the air as the fish lies there, and often the tail sticks out almost as conspicuously. That is what gives them away. It seems almost incredible that on the great expanse of the ocean so slight an object should be noticeable, but it is by discovering the waving fins that the fish are found. The boats searching for them has a lookout who scans the surface of the sea and finds what he is looking for, too. It indicates that there must be a lot of the fish about.

After a swordfish is sighted the next thing to do is to keep him in sight until the vessel can be brought around behind him. Usually she is moving so fast as to run past at first. Sometimes the fish dives under and quickly sinks himself out of sight, but usually he stands by and the angler rick is to keep the eye on him. The vessel comes up behind to avoid disturbing him, and when the bow is directly over his idle and impassive majesty a skilled hand takes up a lance and drives it down into his back. The arrow-shaped dart at the end dislodges itself from the shaft which comes back to the vessel, and off goes the swordfish with the dart sticking to him like a poor relation. He is no longer a sleepy and loafing idler, but a magnificent fish exerting all his enormous powers to escape.

A cask is tied to the rope which has the dart at its other end, and when the fish is struck the cask is thrown overboard. Then away it sails sometimes out of sight and at other times skimming the water and making the foam fly as it flashes along. In the course of time the fish tires himself so that a sailor puts out in a dory and picks up the cask. Then he hauls slowly on the rope and gently brings his catch to the top. If the fish is ugly, there is opportunity for a lot of trouble. But if he comes in peaceably he soons get a cut in the throat from a sharp knife and goes out of business summarily. Then the weighty body is hoisted aboard and the prize is secured. New York has no fancy for swordfish steak, which is mighty good eating, but Boston is a ready buyer, and the wholesale price ranges from 6 to 8 to 15 to 20 cents a pound, according to the supply.

HEROIC BRUNO.

Great Dane Rescued His Baby Mistress From the Flames.

Stories of dogs which have rescued people from fire or water are not uncommon, says Detroit Free Press. One, however, which comes from Marysville, Cal., is quite new in its details. A heavy forrest fire was raging near the line between Butte and Yuba counties. A farmer named Rogers left his little daughter, Florence, in care of Bruno, a Great Dane, and with his wife hastened across the woods to assist a neighbor a mile away to fight the fire that was threatening his barn.

In less than an hour the wind shifted so as to menace the Rogers' premises. Realizing the danger, Rogers, his wife and three neighbors started on the run; but they could not keep pace with the flames. Mrs. Rogers fainted before coming in sight of the house. When the men reached the edge of the clearing, the flames were all about it, the stables on fire and the house was just beginning to blaze.

Rogers, now frantic, was preparing to dash through the circle of flames to rescue his child. But before he could reach his house, out burst big Bruno through the kitchen window, holding the little girl in his great jaws.

When he landed with a bounce Bruno dropped Florence for an instant; but picking her up again, he came bounding on across the clearing, the wedge of which were the men on fire. He ran straight to Rogers and gently deposited the frightened child at his feet.

Bruno seemed to have realized his own peril as well as Florence's. He was in a closed room, and so made a bold dash through a window with his little charge. Florence's face and hands were painfully cut with glass and her clothing scorched, but she was not seriously hurt. The dog was also gashed, and his hair burned off in places.

Roosevelt and the Canal.

Julius Chambers in Brooklyn Eagle.

One feature about the criticisms launched at President Roosevelt for securing the Panama Canal brings a smile to the faces of Democrats and Republicans familiar with the Interoceanic canal problem. Say what you will, Mr. Roosevelt is the first man who defeated the Transcontinental Railroad lobby! Senator Morgan favored the Nicaragua route, but he comprehended that the sudden adoption of the Panama route was encouraged by the railroad lobbyists, because they believed that canal could not be built. They never wanted a canal anywhere. The President stepped in and ended a wrangle that has been in progress fifty years. He is the only man who ever circumvented the Huntingtons, Hills and Harrimans. These gentlemen have prevented Congress from reaching a decision because they owned the United States Senate!

The rebellion of Panama was fortuitous. The railroad sharks had bought the Colombian congress and officials. The government would not have been any party to acquiring possession of the Panama Canal than before. A complete and ingenious system of blackmail had been arranged. The demands of Colombia for her rights in the contract were become so exorbitant that the United States would have refused to pay them and the entire enterprise would have been abandoned. If the revolution were not fostered by agents of this government at Washington it was a clever method of escape from a nation of highwaymen! It was the only practicable.

A was a political conundrum!

First Little Girl—"My papa can squeeze a dollar so flat that you can't see it." Second Little Girl—"No; mine's just a Democrat."—Judge.

Jagsby—"Yes, sir, I took whiskey for medicinal purposes, but I guess I must be a terrible sick man." Wagsby—"Why?" Jagsby—"Why, I took a quart and it only made me sick for a week."—Daily News.
